

Celebrating 20 Years in the Social Work Field!

by Ms Grace Lee - Centre Director of Care Corner Family Service Centre (Toa Payoh)

“ I started volunteering in social services during my teenage years as my elder sister was working in the disability sector. At that time, I also knew a church mate who was pursuing a social work course. When I entered the National University of Singapore to pursue social work, I found my calling towards this line of work and it has been no turning back since! I really truly enjoyed every season of my career in social work at Care Corner!

The most fulfilling aspect of my work is helping people in need and seeing how resilient they are in overcoming their problems.

To those interested in Social Work, my advice is to try to be a volunteer first to see if you enjoy working with people. There are ample opportunities for progression in this sector. Staff who join Care Corner have a training competency roadmap planned for them to help equip them with the right skills needed for their work.”
